

Monday 21st June

09.30 to 10.30 and 13.00 to 14.00

Introductions

Both of these sessions are designed to enable our activists to get to know each other, and to facilitate an open conversation about campaigns.

These sessions will be supported breakout room discussions.

Thursday 24th June

13.00 to 14.00

Panel discussion on campaigning to win in hostile environments

The panel will explore campaigning, organising and collective bargaining in hostile, anti-union work environments, through the use of innovative strategies and tactics. This will focus on the aviation and tech sectors as case studies.

Tuesday 22nd June

13.00 to 14.00

Campaigning 101

This session will discuss getting involved in campaigns, and how to be an effective campaigner.

This is an interactive session with participants expected to contribute to the sessions and learn from each other.

Friday 25th June

13.00 to 14.00

Panel discussion on the role of the state

This panel will look at reimagining the role of the state in a post covid-19 world. It will explore areas where the state could expand, and the role of trade unions in campaigning for a new social and economic model with an enhanced role for the state.

Wednesday 23rd June

13.00 to 14.00

Panel discussion on the future of work

This panel examines what the future of work might look like and what the key issues for trade unions are. The discussion will consider automation, the gig economy, the four-day week, remote and flexible working, the right to disconnect, and digital surveillance.

Saturday 26th June

09.30 to 14.00

Campaigning masterclass

In this session we will look at the anatomy of a campaign from beginning to end.

The highs and lows, challenges and successes, and how an idea is transformed into real change.
